ROUNDUP READY RRALFALFA

Farmers against Monsanto

Roundup herbicides, which are used with RRAlfalfa (Roundup Ready Alfalfa) lose their value after a few years because they are only effective until weeds and other plants become resistant to them.

The RR technology is worthless when the commercial crop has to compete with these weeds and other plants. Crop yields are reduced and difficult to harvest; the farmers must then revert to conventional methods to control the weeds.

After resistance is developed and different and stronger chemicals are needed to control resistant weeds, premium prices must still be paid to Monsanto for use of the RRAlfalfa seed technology even though it isn't working anymore.

The solution? Do not buy Monsanto's RRAlfalfa and get caught in the technology use agreement trap. Sometimes what looks too good to be true, is.
